As a result of the visit of four or five councilmen to as many abattoirs about town the early part of the week, it seems probable at this time that the rotten conditions that have been allowed to exist at these places for years, are in a fair way to be abolished.

The investigating committee's description of the abattoirs is bad enough. What the actual conditions must mean to those unfortunate enough to live in the vicinity of the institutions, is difficult to realize. A better ordinance for the time being than one providing for government inspection of meat coming from these sink holes of vermin would be one empowering the health officers to apply the torch to every building, shed, and pig pen found in the unspeakable condition described by the councilmen, and slap the owners and proprietors of them into the tramp room at police headquarters until they can assimilate to some degree an idea or two of human cleanliness. The tramp room is the only suitable place for their detention, as it is hardly the square thing to force the society of such people on selfrespecting criminals and thugs.

The idea of meat going into homes in this city which comes uninspected from such nauseating places as was disclosed by the investigation, is so sickening and disgusting that one naturally forgets it as soon as he can. Government inspection of all meat coming into the local market should have been made obligatory years ago. The quicker it is done now, the better.

The move to force the dairymen of the city to furnish users with pure milk is one that deserves all the support that can be given it. The movement is crystalizing in an effort to establish a certified dairy here, that is, one whose product is certified pure by a board of physicians, chemsits, and analysts. The milk is subjected to bacteriological tests daily, and the cows are tested for disease periodically. The establishment of such an institution forces every blg dairyman in town to put his place on the same standard, and would drive out about a dozen hapless milk-andwater concerns.

HIS CONFEDERATE.

She's such a dainty, winsome bit
Of feminine humanity,
Entirely unaware of it,
And wholly free from vanity!
I lost my heart when first we met,
She was so sweet and squeezable—
(I own I haven't done it yet,
It never seemed quite feasible).

But still she rules within my heart,
And—strange peculiarity—
She binds me to her by an art
Without familiarity.
I grow to love her more and more,
Though I'm a husband dutiful,
And pray, why not? She's only four.
And doesn't know she's beautiful.

SPECIALS AT THE LOUVRE.

The table d'hote luncheons and dinners at the Louvre Rathskellar are among the most popular features of the celebrated cafe.

We serve a merchant's lunch from 11:30 A. M. to 2 P. M., every day. The price is forty cents and the lunch is unexcelled by any in the city, in variety, preparation, service and general excellence.

Our table d'hote dinner served from 5:30 to 8 o'clock every evening—the real meal of the day—is enjoyed by connoisseurs who realize how difficult it would be to get such a dinner at the price, had we not made it possible.

Our after theatre specialties include every delicacy in the market east and west, and we wish particularly to call attention to the fact that we can always prepare on short notice for after theatre parties of any number. It is best to reserve your table early in the evening.
